Southern California has a higher than average incidence of breast cancer.

While mortality rates have improved, uninsured women are diagnosed at later stages and require more extensive therapies.

As a breast cancer survivor, my goal is to help uninsured women in Southern California who require additional imaging or biopsy as a result of findings from an initial mammogram.

In combination with Newport Diagnostic, ultrasound, MRI or image-guided-needle biopsy will be preformed. This means these women can enter treatment more quickly with the goal of improving the outcome for these women and their families.

Until there is a cure, regular screening with fast follow up is the best we can do. We need the skills and talents of every woman in our community. All proceeds from C-side Collection go toward insuring these women, their families and our community have the benefit of more lifetimes.
